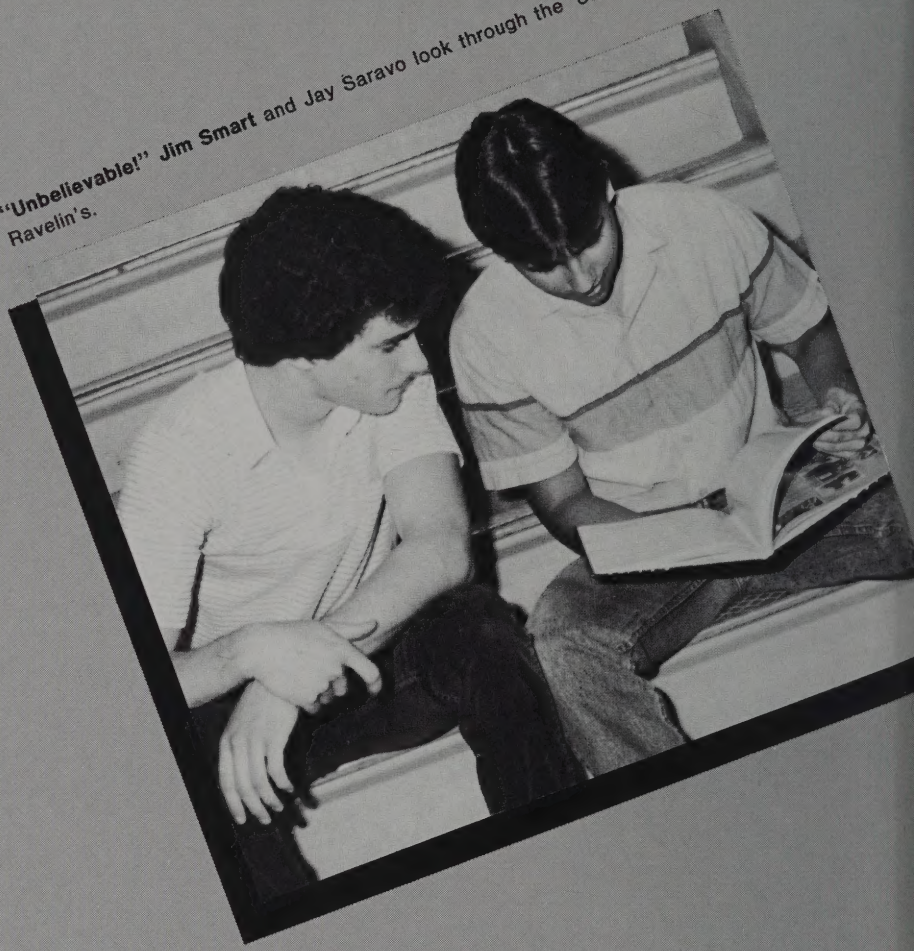
The Ravelin's Tale

Once upon a time, in a hamlet called Oxford, there was a high school. Now at this high school, students were being asked to choose an appropriate name for their yearbook. They agreed upon the name Ravelin's. (They lived in a time of homemade garments, and therefore knew that Ravelin's is a contraction of ravelings, a synonym for thread of a woven material.) Like the material, the school was made up of individuals that complimented the whole.

As each year draws to a close, a class graduates and leaves OHS; a part of the cloth unravels. Similarly, as each year begins and a new class joins OHS, more threads are woven into the cloth. The cloth never stops changing and forming new patterns. Each student adds his or her touch of color and style to Oxford High School, and the cloth could not be completed without each student's thread.

To this day, yearbooks flourish in the territory of Oxford, and the townspeople now live happily ever after!



"Unbelievable!" Jim Smart and Jay Saravo look through the '85 edition of Ravelin's.

There is a true unity among the students in Oxford. Dwayne Long, David Mullins, Geoff Plasse, Mike Dalio, and Sandy Ewings experience some of it during Cafe study.

What do you mean "Something Unexpected"?

The theme of this year's Ravelin's is, as you might know by now, "Something Unexpected . . . Everything". This is a statement of pride for our school and ourselves. Not only are there many outstanding individuals at OHS, but also many noteworthy groups, programs, and organizations, some of which people aren't even aware. In spite of setbacks such as proposition 2½ and teacher contract negotiations, Oxford High continues to be a great school.

The library is a common place for underclassmen to go rather than attend their room studies. Kevin Rookey is glad to avoid the monotony of his study but never-the-less spends a little of his time studying.

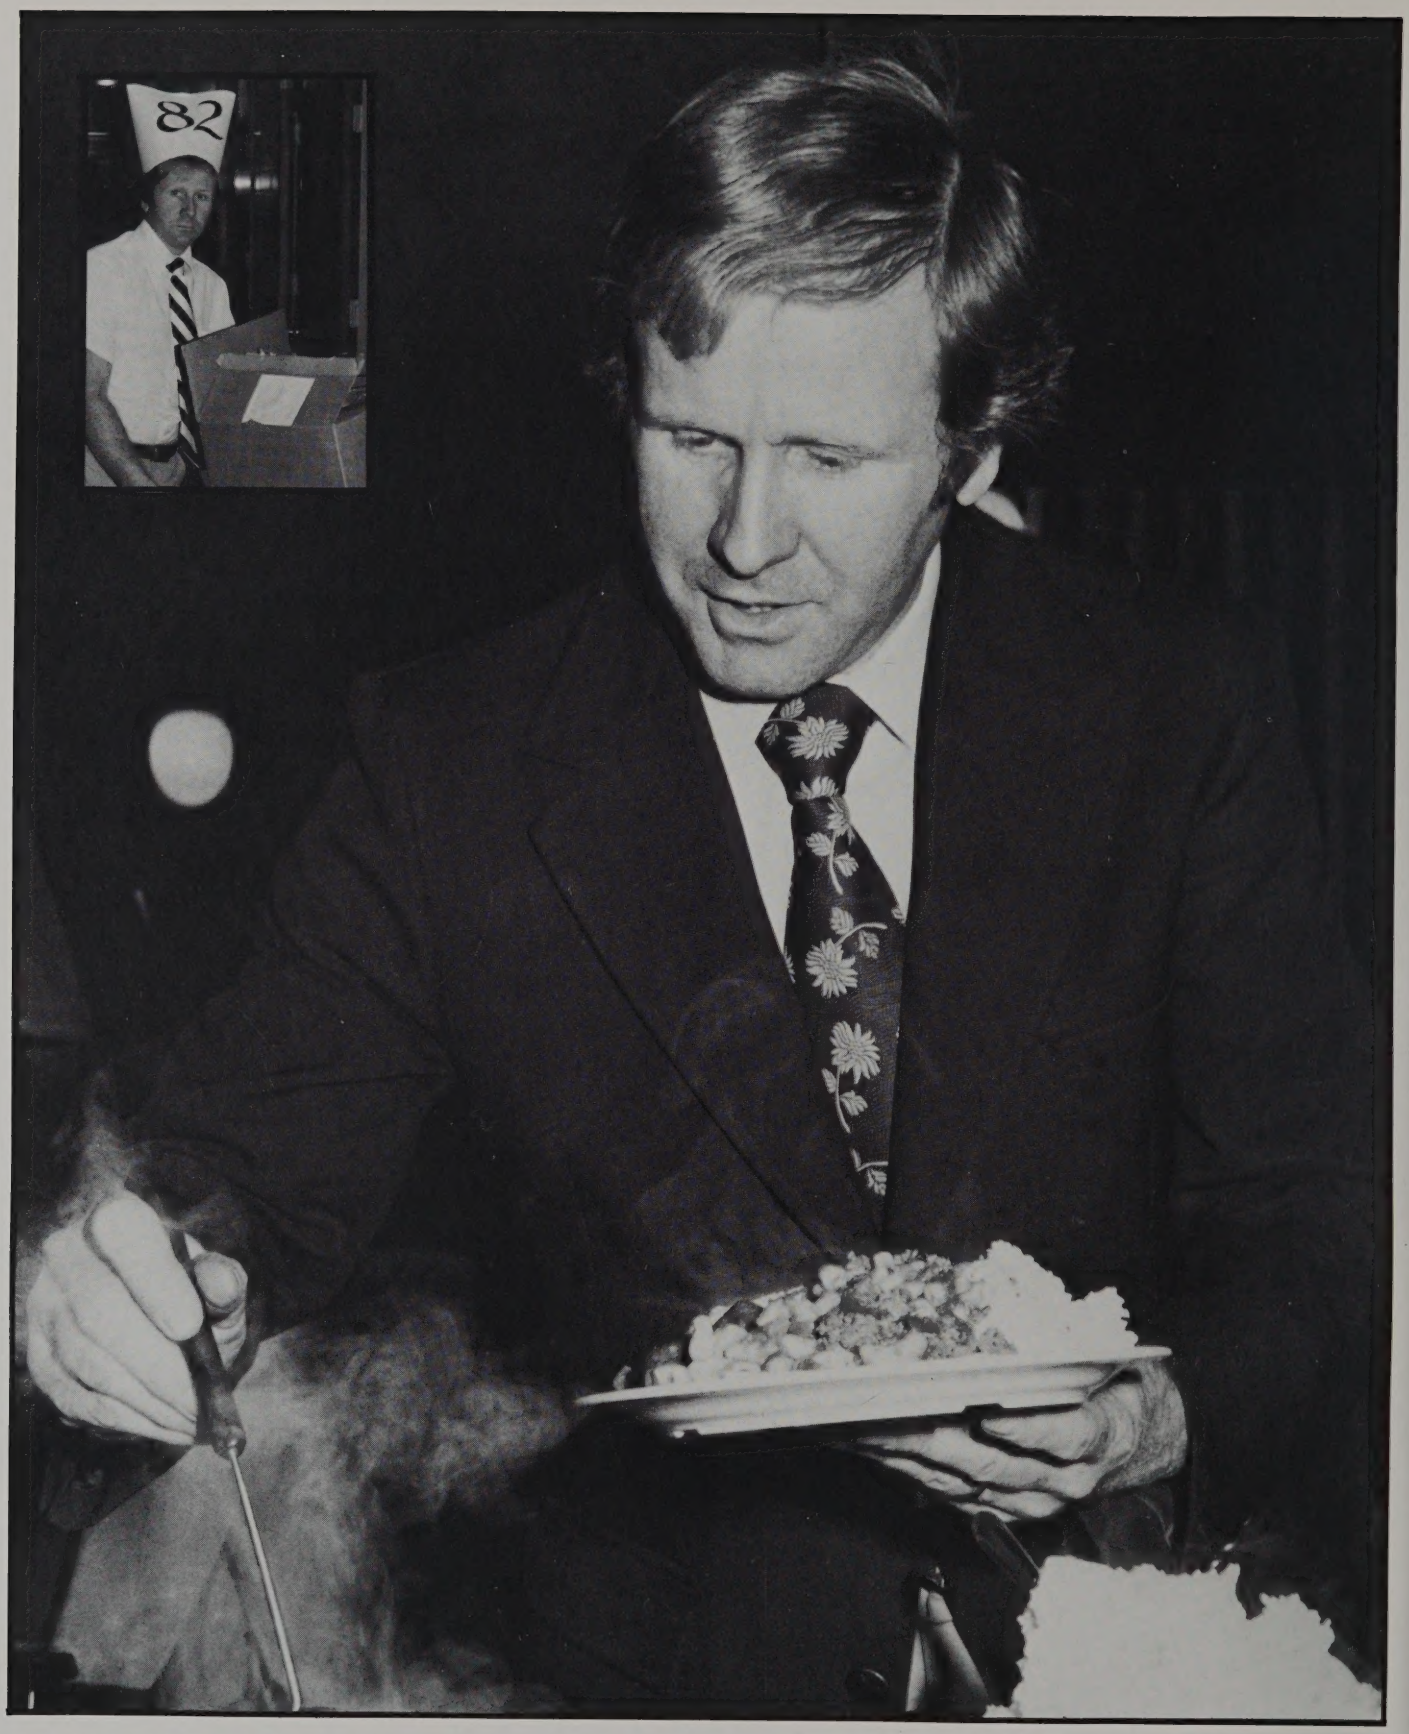
It's unbelievable what is constructed in the industrial arts department. Dean Cassioni, Joe Belvery, and Joe Hartland, work on one of these unusual projects: a sailboat.



Mr. Fontaine, the Junior Class Adviser, lends his services at a Senior Class Breakfast.

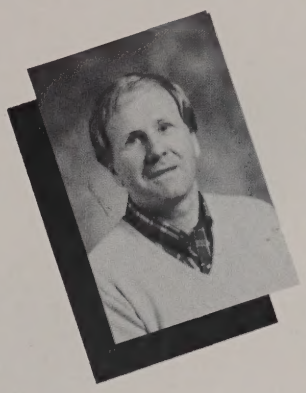
A Man With Dedication



The dedication of many of the teachers in the high school often goes unrecognized because their contributions are constant. Mr. Fontaine is a prime example of such dedication. Many of the extra things he does may appear to be duty because he does them so routinely. Among his commitments to the welfare of the students are the Math Team Adviser, SAT instruction, independant studies, and adviser of the Junior class. The success of the Senior classes have been largely due to his ability to get them into firm financial footing during their Junior year, and the SAT scores have been largely influenced by the classes that he has sponsored on his own personal time during the evening. Such concern for the students he comes in contact with has a great influence on their academic careers, and it is for this reason that we, the graduating class of '86, dedicate the yearbook to Mr. Fontaine and the services he has performed for the students of Oxford High School.

Faculty and Administration

With dedication unparalleled, the teachers of Oxford High always manage to do the unexpected . . . Everything

NO NOT AN USHER...

But teachers came to school this year with an unexpected bond between them — an armband. The orange felt band was a silent protest — the teachers were working without a contract. Despite this fact they continued to teach in much the same manner as they had previously, giving to the students the education they deserved. The effort by the teachers to keep Oxford High School running showed the spirit and dedication that is so often taken for granted by parents and students alike.

Mr. Stickney shows his support of the teacher protest by wearing his orange arm band.

TWO DIFFERENT WORLDS

Imagine going to school from 8:30 until 4:00, or better, only for half a day! The lives of students in other lands are different than ours, and this year, Oxford has two foreign exchange students, both from situations different than ours and each other's.

"I wanted to learn more about the American way of life," said Claudie Haese, who finds that school work here is easier than that in the German school system. The learning experience was also a reason why she decided to come to the United States. She explained that she wanted to meet people and make new friends. Claudia feels that the people in America are very friendly and possess a strong "team spirit". She enjoys her independence here, and feels very comfortable in Oxford.

"I felt it (being an exchange student) would strengthen my spirit," stated Japanese student Yumiko Monoe, who likes the American high school system.

The Japanese high school, very different from the American system, requires students to take nine courses, including math, English, arts, foods, and government. Yumiko also wanted to learn more about America and gain a better understanding of the English language.

SENIOR ACHIEVERS

Certain members of the senior class received recognition for academic excellence or participation in school government. The requirements and nature of these awards are generally not well known, but they are achievements to be proud of.

Harvard Book Club Award — The purpose of this award is to recognize the person in the senior class who has the highest English average. The award is sponsored by Harvard University.

Superintendents' Award for Academic Excellence — This award is chosen by the superintendent of schools and the principal, but must be nominated by teachers. The representative must not only be in the top few percentage of his class, but must also be a well-rounded person, participating in extracurricular activities. After being chosen for the award, the representative attends a seminar with all the Massachusetts Superintendents' Scholars.

Student Government Day Representative — Elected by the student body, this high school representative attends the Massachusetts State House to participate in workshops about our State legislature. For more on this event, see page 78.

Daughters of the American Revolution — This member of the senior class must possess the following qualities; leadership, scholarship, citizenship, and patriotism. Once elected by his fellow classmates, this person becomes eligible for county and state scholarships.

Boys' and Girls' State Representatives — Within the top ten percent, these students participate in a week long seminar teaching them about our United States Government.

PIRATE RINGS ARE A "TREASURE CHEST"

The complicated process of buying class rings typically begins in the spring of the Sophomore year, and this year's Juniors were no exception. The first step, forming a ring committee, was handled by the class officers. Choosing students from many different groups within the class, the officers tried to get a fair representation.

The ring committee then started the procedure of choosing a ring company. They met with the two prominent companies, Balfour and Josten. After gathering the details of each company's presentations, they conveyed it to their peers in a class meeting. The class chose Balfour.

Now the ring committee commenced to design an original emblem of the mascot for the side of the ring. After tedious work with the Balfour artist, they completed such a design featuring crossed swords framing a pirate and "Oxford Pirates" in the shape of a treasure chest.

The class ordered it's rings near the end of their Sophomore year. They decided upon such items as the type of metal, the type and cut of the stone, the style, and the emblem they wanted on the side opposite the mascott.

After a long period of waiting, the Class of '87 finally received it's rings on October 9, 1985. They can now not only enjoy the unity and spirit the rings give the class, but they can also wear them proudly as signs that they are now upperclassmen.

What's in a Locker?

Books, coats, and gym clothes are seldom the sole occupants of a locker at Oxford High. Most locker doors and walls are lined with a vast array of interesting material. These eye-catching designs may include pictures of such things as rock stars, movie stars, sports figures, animals and friends. Other popular items include magazine clippings, stickers, notes, magnets, and mirrors. In fact, at OHS, one could probably find just about anything fastened to the interior of a locker!

Lockers are also a place for social gatherings. Between periods and before and after school, groups can be seen congregating in their "territories". The halls and lockers provide a sounding board for the latest gossip. Walking by the lockers, one can hear anything from last night's date to next weekend's plans.

Everything About Student Life

These Are The Best Of Times . . .

And so was April 26'th, 1985, the night of the Junior Prom for the class of '86. The night began the moment the students entered the colorfully decorated OHS cafeteria. Silver stars and pink and white bows hung from the curtains. Spirits were lifted by the six-foot hot air balloon suspended above the dance floor. Pink, white, and silver streamers were strung from the dimmed lights, matching the balloons hovering above dancing couples. On the far wall, glimmering under the soft lights, was a giant clock and the words "The Best of Times", the theme song chosen for this special night. The band Secrets entertained the couples for the evening with a multitude of pop hits along with the theme song. The fast songs brought out the dancers among us, while the slower, more romantic songs lured everyone onto the dance floor. Midnight brought the event to a close with a final encore of "The Best of Times". It also ended an unforgettable night with many wishing they could "tie back the hands of time".

"Dance the Night Away"

This year's Spirit Week Dance, sponsored by the Student Council, was held Friday November 22. It started at 7:00 p.m. and went on until 11:00 p.m. It was a very enjoyable evening for all who attended.

The dance is held each year to raise school spirit. It is followed by Spirit Week, boosting spirit for the Thanksgiving Day Game.

The disc jockey played many of the current hits and also took requests. He also took time to dedicate "We Built This City" to the cheerleaders and "Born in the U.S.A." to the Football team.

The dance was highlighted by a "golden oldies" segment featuring such songs as "Twist and Shout", "You Really Got Me", and "Mony, Mony".

Spirit was the purpose of the dance, and as all in attendance would agree it was successful in building both spirit and support for the football team.

Journey Through Your Imagination

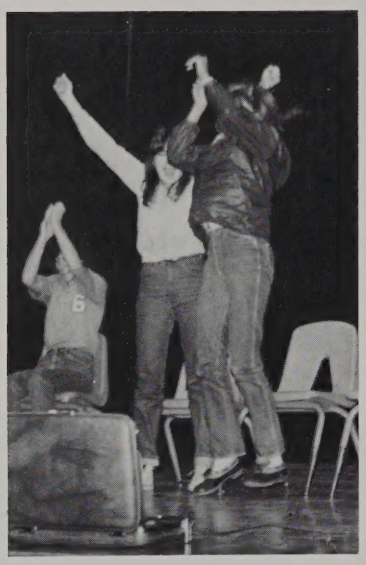
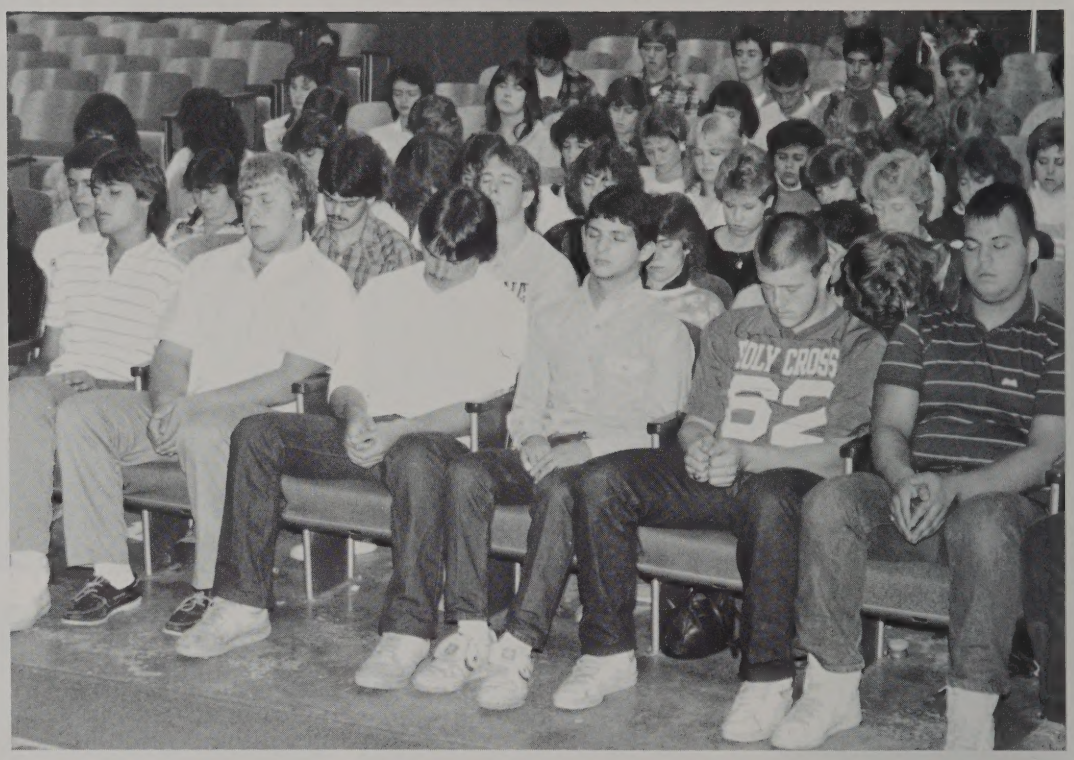
(Below) Tammy Jason, Michelle Perry, and Linda Bachand celebrate their victory after Mr. Cloutier has informed them that they have won $20,000 in a horse race!





"You gotta be cool," explained Francis Cloutier, a clinical hypnotist from Bridgewater. "Let your body go into 'progressive relaxation' — a deep relaxing from head to toe."

So went the start of a fantastic show done by the hpynotist on October 8'th for Mr. Doldoorian's psychology classes. Mr. Cloutier said that hypnotism works because the brain gives imagination dominance over will power. He also explained that hypnosis is used today to help athletes concentrate, help people to lose weight, and help some people to quit smoking. He then set out to prove that hypnotism really works!

During progressive relaxation, the hypnotist repeated suggestions to induct people into a hypnotic trance. Those who were successfully hypnotized were brought up on stage to "journey through their imagination".

The journey started as Tammy Jason, Michelle Perry, Linda Bachand, Chris Mancini, and Michelle Paille blasted off into outerspace on their own rocketships. After several episodes while in space, each starship landed on the planet "Psy". While on this strange planet, the five adventurers did such things as go to the movies, regress back to six years of age, win $20,000 from a horse race, and pretend to be their favorite person.

The show was closed by Mr. Cloutier using post-hypnotic suggestions to make his patients perform various acts after their trance had ended.

All in attendance enjoyed the performance, especially the five privileged enough to take a trip to a very special place — their imagination.

RISE AND SHINE

(Right) Kim Jones and Karin Peterson, who both play clarinet in the band, go through music for a half-time show.

Summer is a time for rest, but not if you are a member of the Oxford High School Band. Members of the band were on school grounds every morning for the last week of August preparing themselves for the 85-86 school year. This year will be the first marching band season with the new uniforms and director Mr. Peter Gillies wanted the band to be as spectacular as they looked. The band marched in several parades and getting an early start helped them to perform well throughout the year.

The Spirit of the Season

Oxford High began the Holiday Season with a Christmas Celebration on December 18. The O.H.S. concert band started the evening off with traditional Christmas songs, as well as a modern, upbeat jingle called "Old St. Nick takes a Rockin' Trip". The Senior and Freshman Choruses offered a variety of vocal holiday tunes, including a sing along and a comical duet by Johanna Trumbull and Chris Oliveira entitled "The Twelve Days After Christmas". Following the concert, the entire music department held a dance in the cafeteria and exchanged "gag gifts".

The National Honor Society held a bake sale during the Christmas concert, and filled three tables with homemade desserts. The Society raised over $160 to be used for academic scholarships.

All in all, the audience was provided with a very entertaining evening filled with the "spirit of the season".

GETTING INVOLVED . . .

Involvement can make or break Good Government Day, and this year's annual election was a huge success because of the concern expressed by all five grades. The turnout of candidates was phonominal: five candidates in comparison with last year's two. It was a competetive race with highly developed campaigns; gimmicks such as buttons, and flyers accompanied the usual posters, and although initially the race was tight, G.G.D.R. Chris Hamel's popularity with the younger students of the school gave him a substantial lead in the end. Friendly competition can be enjoyable for all who participate in it, and this year's Good Government Day was an event the entire school enjoyed.

Student Government Day Chairperson Pam Powers addresses the school.

ORANGE AND BLACK PIRATE ATTACK

Want to see Spirit? The place to be this year was at the pep rallies. One, held September 16, 1985 was for the first football game of the season against Grafton. The second, held on Nevember 27, 1985 was for the annual Thanksgiving Day game against Auburn High.

The first pep rally was accompanied by excitement and the smell of orange hair paint. Almost everyone wanted to get into the spirit of things with the addition of a school color to their hair.

The Thanksgiving Day Rally was highlighted by a visit from Balloony Tunes. The annual class competitions were a huge success and the sophomores made a good showing winning the chant competition.

Rising Costs

In order for a class, team, or club to meet expenses, (and there are plenty), the students must build up the treasury. Here at O.H.S., they take advantage of almost any occasion to make money, and in a variety of ways. Whether sponsoring a dance, having a bake or rummage sale, sponsoring a booth at "Founders' Day", or selling items such as flowers, candy, stickers, pins, and balloons, the students unselfishly volunteer their time for these worthy causes.

This year, the "go out and get'em" spirit is even stronger among those who work to raise funds. Underclassmen have been more involved than in the past. The juniors and seniors, who need the most money, constantly try to devise new means such as the turkey raffle in November and the "Heart to Heart" service in February.

All in all, the students have been quite successful in raising any needed funds, and generally enjoy the entrepreneural spirit.

Superbowl Fever

There was an unusual reason to celebrate at Oxford High on Friday, January 24th. That reason: the New England Patriots were headed to the Superbowl for the first time in the club's history. The team had also won three playoff games on the road and now claimed the AFC championship, unheard of for a wild card team in football history.

They defeated the New York Jets, the Los Angeles Raiders, and the Miami Dolphins, whipping up a frenzy of excitement among Patriot fans. This excitement was strongly evident throughout the school on "Patriot's Day". Mr. Bacon declared the day dedicated to the Patriots and urged students and teachers alike to support New England's team. Supporters sported shirts with the team logo and such spirit raising slogans as "Berry the Bears", "Berry" refering to the highly successful coach of the Patriots, Raymond Berry. Pins of all designs and sizes flashed on shirts throughout the school.

Because an occasion such as this may not return for some time, the day was all the more special. Our team may not have won the Superbowl, but they gave us all something we'll always remember and that chance to really experience "Superbowl Fever".

Field Hockey vs. Football?

"Something Unexpected . . . Field Hockey vs Football!" This rather unusual match-up was a challenge from the field hockey team: the girls wanted to play an aggressive opponent in their game.

The game, complete with penalty shots, was officiated by Coach Doldoorian, the football coach, and Coach Symonowicz, the field hockey coach. The two teams fought it out, but neither side clearly dominated. The girls attempted several shots at their opponents' goal, but the athletic ability of the boys' goalie David Mullins, proved to be too strong. After an official field hockey period, the game ended in a scoreless tie.

The scrimmage was good practice for the field hockey team's upcoming games. All who participated, had a fun time.

COMPETITION AND PLEASURE . . .

Are what Sports and Organizations are all about. At OHS, students take pride in the extracurricular activities that they take part in and try to make them the best they possibly can.

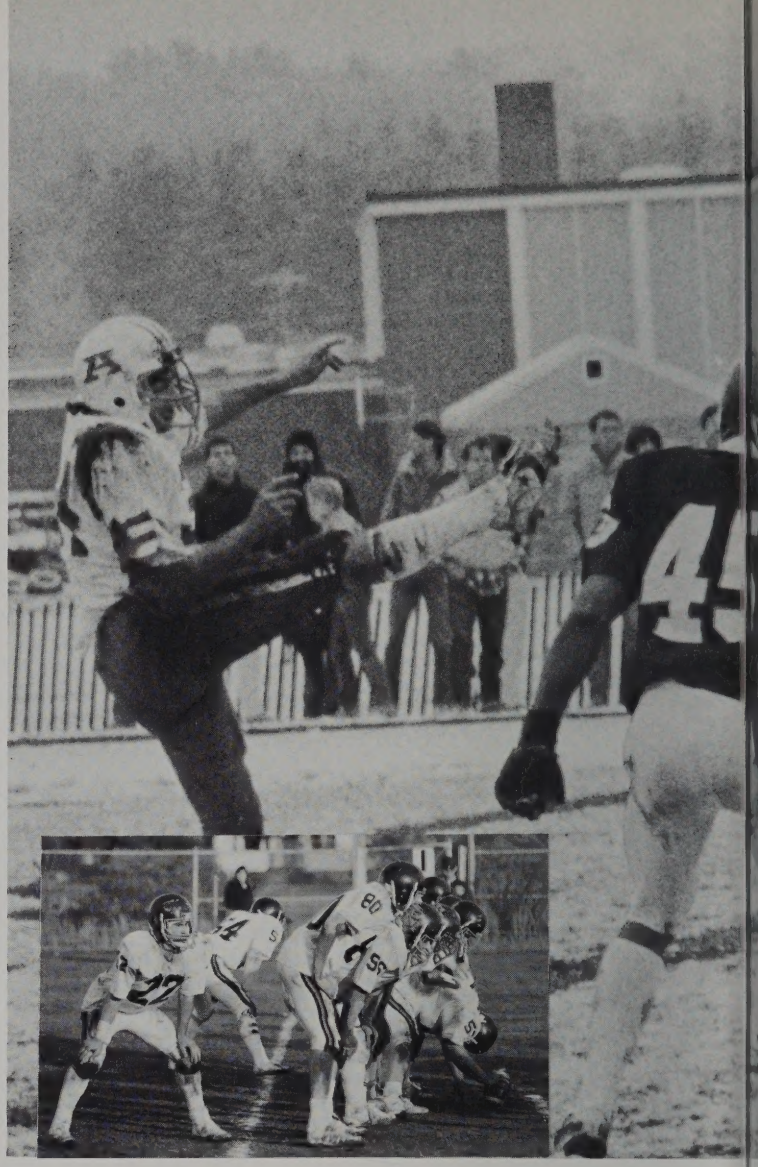
HOLD YOUR HEADS UP GUYS



This year's OHS Football team had an excellent season. The team finished the year with a 6-4 record and was SWCL Runner-up with a 6-1 league record. After losing their first three games, the Pirates rolled to six straight victories including a 14-6 victory over arch rival Northbridge.

The captains were Dan Fields #22, Steve Shivick #56, and Mike O'Brien #53, all of whom had great seasons. There were 17 Seniors on this year's squad and all contributed to a great season. Dave Halley ran for 1000 yards and 12 touchdowns and Quarterback Jim Maliff had a great passing year.

On defense, Dave Jewell led the team in tackles from his linebacker position, Pete Terlizzi had 5 interceptions from his safety position, and Chris Hamel led the team in quarterback sacks.

The members of the team can hold their heads high this year because it was a great season!

THEY'RE ON THE BALL

The varsity soccer team played outstanding this year, with a 12-4-2 record overall. It was the best soccer season in the history of OHS. Oxford finished second in the league, and the team went to district playoffs for the first time since 1978.

The team was lead to its fanatastic standings by senior co-captains, Paul Benoit and Mike Langlois. Thoughout the season, Paul controlled the middle of the field from his stopper-back position, while Mike anchored the team his position of sweeper.

The team had an incredible offense, too, with three of its players being in Southern Worcester County's five leading soccer scorers! Bob LaPointe was Oxford's top scorer, finishing the year with 12 goals and 7 assists! Oxford's other offensive forces included Taso Zahariadis and Gary Rudman, who scored 8 goals and 7 goals, respectively.

Though the team's seniors will be greatly missed, the team looks forward to another successful season next year with the return of many veterans.

QUALITY NOT QUANTITY

. . . was the story of the 1985 Cross Country team coached by Mr. Robert Boucher. The team of four seniors, two juniors, and two sophomores finished with a winning record of ten wins and four losses, losing only to the league's co-champions, Grafton and Northbridge.

The team was lead to their standing by senior captain Karl Rookey and seniors Will Zoldak, Mark Brooks, and Jeff Peterson, the team's four top winners.

The season was highlighted by a pair of wins over rival competitor West Boylston, the second win being by only one point! Another highlight was the the home meet against the first place team, Northbridge. Though Oxford did not win, the meet was a moral victory with all runners getting their personal best times and Mark Brooks finishing first for the team.

The Cross Country team ended their season by hosting the 1985 Southern Worcestor County League Meet. Over 55 of the best runners from eight neighboring schools competed in this meet with Rookey finishing twelfth, Zoldak fourteenth, and Peterson seventeenth.

"Runners to your marks . . . GO!" As these familiar words start the Northbridge vs. Oxford meet, Rookey and Brooks both get a strong start.

The ability to kick at the end of a run can determine the outcome of a race. Here Jeff Peterson starts his kick as he enters the home stretch.

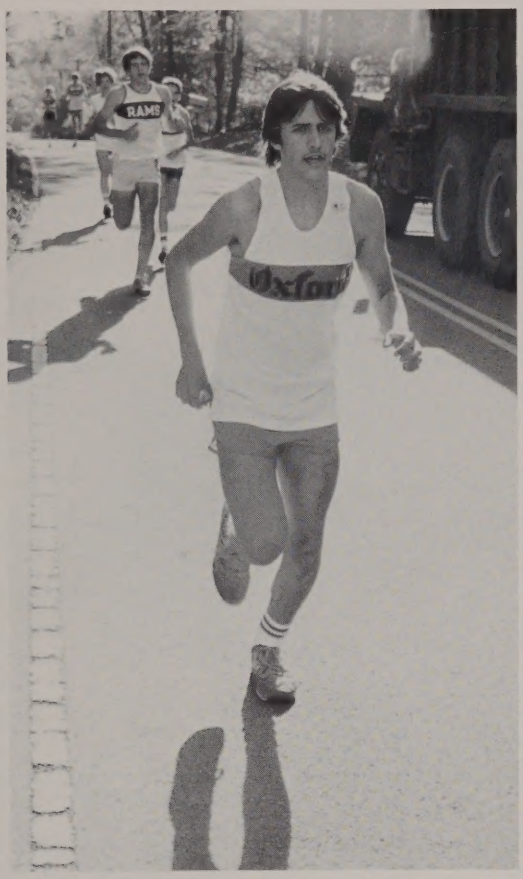
Returning for his third season, Scott Graves was a steady contributor to the team this year.



Being able to keep a steady pace, Jennifer Jeneral did surprising well against her lady competitors. She finished within the top three places in all dual meets.

"IT'S HOW YOU PLAY THE GAME!"

Despite displaying a final record of 4-9-4, the Oxford High varsity field hockey team, led by senior tri-captains Kathy Malkasian, Jeannie Champagne, and Tammy Jason, played their games with the utmost of intensity and concentration.

It was a year of change for this young team consisting of only three returning seniors. Denise Tinsley, once a player in her freshman year, came back to help out the team in her senior year. Also, for the first time in Oxford's history a boy, senior David Amelin, joined the team as the goalie. The group also adjusted to a new coach, Cammie Symonowicz.

Another highlight of the Pirates' season was the participation of their first night game with Northbridge. Although the team did not end with a winning record, they worked hard and played to the best of their capabilities.

The JV field hockey team under the coaching of Kim Dimattio ended their season with a record of 0-9-6. The girls, consisting of 6 sophomores, 4 freshmen, and 6 eighth graders improved their skills with every game. Their "never-give-up" attitude kept them going throughout the season. With this attitude, a promising future is ahead for these girls.

was present with the 1985-86 Boys' Varsity Basketball team, though plagued by injuries throughout the season. The Pirates were led by senior co-captains Pete Terlizzi and Jim Maliff. Maliff was the Pirates' leading scorer, while Terlizzi was the club's leading rebounder, dominating under the boards. With their quickness, forwards Chris Hamel and Shane Moody contributed with a strong defensive effort. Guard Eric Boss, a newcomer to the Pirates' squad, added depth to the team with his outside shooting until sidelined by an ankle injury. The Pirates look forward to a successful future with four juniors and four sophomores returning to the starting lineup next year.

DEFENDING CHAMPIONS

After last year's impressive 17-1 record and league co-championship, the girl's varsity basketball team was forced to rebuild. The young team was led by senior co-captains Kathy Malkasian and Leanne Mercier. Returning for their fifth season, the two girls were a driving force. Malkasian, a forward, led the team in scoring while Mercier, a guard, led the team in assists. Other members of the young starting line-up included junior Tina Mahoney, junior Barbara Germain, and sophomore Donna Potter. Despite the inexperience of the team, the effort was tremendous. Though their record didn't show it, the close scores of the games did. With nine girls returning to the varsity squad next year, the team looks forward to another successful season.

WE'VE GOT THE SPIRIT

The dedication and endeavors of the Cheerleading Squad provided not only support for our athletes, but also a personal gain and feeling of self-satisfaction. Performing during both the football and basketball seasons, the cheerleaders promoted school spirit both in and out of school.

Starting practices during their summer vacation, the girls worked extremely hard to improve their skills throughout the year. The squad also played a major part at our two pep rallies and at football halftime shows, including the Thanksgiving Day Game.

The girls do a lot for OHS school spirit, and deserve credit for what they do. This year's Varsity Cheerleading Squad consisted of nine girls, including senior co-captains Lori and Lynn Groleau, and Linda Bachand.

Student Council

This year the Student Council was very successful and has kept its place as a highly respected organization. The main project of the Council was Spirit Week, which took place on the six days before the Thanksgiving Day Football Game. Highlighting Spirit Week was one of the largest, most profitable, and well-managed dances in the history of Oxford High. Other activities for the week included the "Class with the Most Class" competition, the Spirit Days (Beach Day, Crazy Dress Up Day, and Orange & Black Day), and the pep rally.

Other events of the year were acting as guides at parents' night and the eighth grade orientation, organizing the annual Red Cross Blood Bank, and running an extremely successful canned food drive. The members of the Student Council can be proud to be a part of such an involved organization, both in school and community.

National Honor Society

Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service: These are the four eligibility requirements for the National Honor Society of Secondary Schools.

For the 1985-86 school year, Oxfords High's NHS has 37 members, a great increase in size over year's past. The increase in membership was due to a revision in the Huguenot Chapter's Constitution which allows the addition of sophomores to the society.

Because there is no longer a complete change over members each year, the organization has been greatly strengthened by this change. Members who were inducted as sophomores may now be in the NHS for three grade levels, provided that they maintain an 87 average or better and their conduct both in and out of school is exemplary.

Math Team

Every Monday after school, members of the Math Team can be found in room 275 solving math problems and learning new "math tricks" from their advisor, Mr. Fontaine.

Oxford High's Math Team competes in four meets during the year, each held at neighboring Worcester County schools on the first Wednesday of every other month.

At a meet, there are five different math categories. Each member of the team competes in three of the five rounds, plus a team round. The participant is awarded points for every correct answer and the number of points varies with the degree of difficulty of a problem. The points are then totaled for each team.

In the second meet of the year, Oxford finished in third place with a total of 28 points, right behind our Webster neighbor, Bartlett High School, who finished with 29 points.

Mr. Fountaine, Math Team adviser, instructs members on a geometric problem during a team practice.

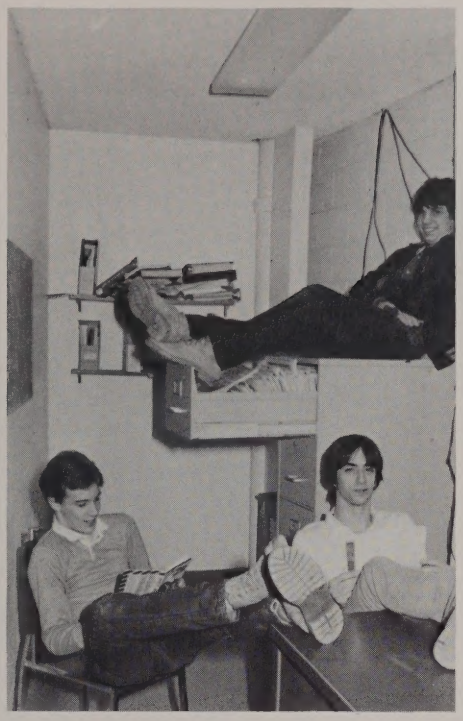
Audio — Visual Aids



Under the direction of Mr. Gilman and Mr. Butler, the Audio-Visual Aides work hard on many unseen projects both in and out of school. They supply and maintain the equipment used by a large number of teachers, and are always available for instruction on how to operate these machines.

Their work does not end with the 1:50 bell, either. A.V. Aides often go above and beyond the call of duty. A good example of this is the Cable T.V. Channel 32, which airs shows filmed by the A.V. department such sports and music concerts.

DESIGNING DESTINY

Decisive action can put things into motion, as Mr. Bacon found out last year. For the first time ever, the yearbook editors were sent to a seminar for instruction in yearbook fundimentals, and a yearbook revolution began.

The concept of a contemporary yearbook was new to teachers and students alike, and although great change in style had occurred, most people were favorably impressed. Because of the inovations, the '85-'86 editors also were sent to the seminar, to acquire further knowledge of the contemporary yearbook scene.

The effort for growth and improvement continued this year. The most noticable difference lies in theme. Theme is an element that was not previously obvious, and this year's staff hoped to give the book unity by carrying obvious graphic and verbal themes throughout the book.

The decision to provide editors with the opportunity of attending the seminar has promoted the forward evolution of the Ravelin's. The book has a great potential, only some of which has been revealed, but the destiny of success has begun to be realized.

A special thanks to . . .

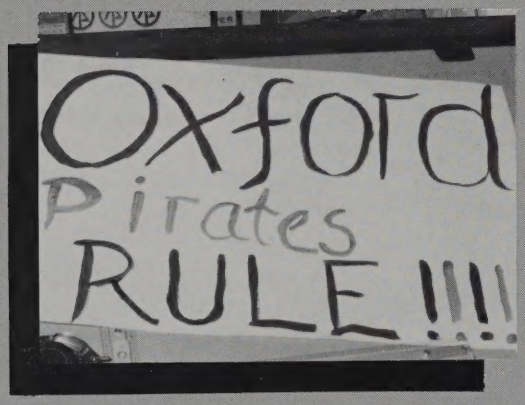
The senior hall has always been awe inspiring to the underclassmen, but in years to come, they find that it is no different than any other.



Nothing Can Beat Pirate Pride!

When trying to decide on a theme for the yearbook, the Ravelin's Staff chose a statement of pride, "Something Unexpected . . . Everything". We did this to make students aware of the things that OHS has to be proud of. Oxford High is not "just another high school". We have people and programs which are truly unique to our school.

Because we have become a better school over the past few years, the yearbook staff wanted to design a contemporary yearbook, not just a "photo album". In the yearbook, we tryed to reflect the rising tide of achievement and accomplishment and tell the story of the school year.

The editors sincerely hope that through the yearbook, students have noticed some of Oxford High's noteworthy points, which are largely taken for granted.

Posters such as these being painted by Junior Renee Gero, Tammy Thomas, and Randy Germain built spirit among the students.

Mr. Stickney, yearbook adviser, runs off ad pages for the 1986 Ravelin's.

Pam,

It seems like only yesterday that my little girl was starting her first day of school. Time has passed so quickly and today you've grown into a bright, loving young adult who is graduating. Soon you'll be leaving for college.

You have demonstrated through hard work and strong determination that you can and will always be an achiever. Don't ever change, Pam, and I am certain you will always be successful.

I'm proud to be your mom and I love you very much.

Congratulations!

Dear Lisa,

As your high school days come to an end, you are looking forward to new challenges.

Retain the values that you have always cherished: Love of God, faith in your fellow man, and courage to always do what is right. Be dedicated to your goals. Keep your zest for life and your sense of humor, as it will make the harder things in life go easier. Keep all things in perspective and remember that we are always here for you.

So with as much pride as our hearts have room for, we wish you the best of what life has to offer. We thank you for the best gift you have given to us — the chance to get to know all about you, our pride and joy

Good luck in the future, for your happiness is ours.

Love,
Mom and Dad
